

Oglala Lakota College Book Loan Program Student Agreement

OLC establishes a Book Loan Program to assist students who are ineligible for Pell or other student assistance funding, and who have a financial need. OLC will loan books to students for classes that they are enrolled in for the semester they are taking classes. The student must sign the Book Loan Agreement before any books are given to a student. After the semester is over with or if the student drops from their classes, they must return these books to the OLC Bookstore. If the students do not return their books to the College, they become ineligible for the Book Loan Program.

In order to establish financial need, a student must have a FAFSA on file with the college.
