STUDENT INFORMATION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM - FERPA

FERPA gives parents (as well as students in postsecondary schools) the right to review and confirm the accuracy of education records. This and other United States "privacy" laws ensure that information about citizens collected by schools and government agencies can be released only for specific and legally defined purposes.

FERPA's legal statute citation can be found in the U.S. Code (20 USC 1232g), which incorporates all amendments to FERPA. FERPA regulations are found in the Federal Register (34 CFR Part 99). FERPA's 1994 amendments are found in Public Law (P.L.) 103-382.

FERPA Protects Privacy

FERPA applies to public schools and state or local education agencies that receive Federal education funds, and it protects both paper and computerized records. FERPA requires schools and local education agencies to annually notify parents of their rights under FERPA. The notice must effectively inform parents with disabilities or who have a primary home language other than English. The annual notice pertaining to FERPA rights must explain that parents may inspect and review records and, if they believe the records to be inaccurate, they may seek to amend them. Parents also have the right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information in the record, except under authorized circumstances.

FERPA gives both parents, custodial and noncustodial, equal access to student information unless the school has evidence of a court order or state law revoking these rights. When students reach the age of 18, or when they become students at postsecondary education institutions, they become "eligible students' and rights under FERPA transfer to them. However, parents retain access to student records of children who are their dependents for tax purposes.

FERPA Defines an Education Record

Education records include a range of information about a student that is maintained in schools in any recorded way, such as handwriting, print, computer media, video or audio tape, film, microfilm, and microfiche. Examples are:

- Date and place of birth, parent(s) and/or guardian addresses, and where parents can be contacted in emergencies;
 - Grades, test scores, courses taken, academic specializations and activities, and official letters regarding a student's status in school;

- Special education records;
- Disciplinary records;
- Medical and health records that the school creates or collects and maintains:
- Documentation of attendance, schools attended, courses taken, awards conferred, and degrees earned;
- Personal information such as student's identification code, social security number, picture, or other information that would make it easy to identify or locate a student

Personal notes made by teachers and other school officials that are not shared with others are not considered education records. Additionally, law enforcement records created and maintained by a school or district's law enforcement unit are not education records.

Part of the education record, known as directory information, includes personal information about a student that can be made public according to a school system's student records policy. Directory information may include a student's name, address, and telephone number, and other information typically found in school yearbooks or athletic programs. Other examples are names and pictures of participants in various extracurricular activities or recipients of awards, pictures of students, and height and weight of athletes.

Each year schools must give parents public notice of the types of information designated as directory information. By a specified time after parents are notified of their review rights, parents may ask to remove all or part of the information on their child that they do not wish to be available to the public without their consent.

FERPA Guarantees Parent Review and Appeal

If, upon review, parents find an education record is inaccurate or misleading, they may request changes or corrections, and schools and education agencies must respond promptly to these requests.

Requests should be made in writing, according to an agency's annual notice of procedures for exercising rights to amend records. Within a reasonable time period, the school or agency must decide if the request to change a record is consistent with its own assessment of the accuracy of the record. If a parent's request is denied, he or she must be offered the opportunity for a hearing. If the disagreement with the record continues after the hearing, the parent may insert an explanation of the objection in the record. FERPA's provisions do not apply to grades and educational decisions about children that school personnel make.

While parents have a right to review records, schools are not required by Federal law to provide copies of information, unless providing copies would be the only way of giving parents access. Schools may charge a reasonable fee for obtaining records, and they may not destroy records if a request for access is pending.

FERPA Restricts Disclosure of Student Records

Local education agencies and schools may release information from students' education records with the prior written consent of parents, under limited conditions specified by law, or as stated in local agencies' student records policies. The same rules restricting disclosures apply to records maintained by third parties acting on behalf of schools, such as state and local education agencies, intermediate administrative units, researchers, psychologists, or medical practitioners who work for or are under contract to schools.

If an education agency or school district has a policy of disclosing records, it must specify the criteria for determining school officials within an agency, including teachers, who have a legitimate educational interest. Generally, school officials have legitimate educational interest if they need to review an education record to fulfill their professional responsibilities.

Teachers and school officials who work with the students and schools to which students apply for entrance may also have access to education records without prior consent of the parent. In addition, information from students' records may be released to state and local education officials to conduct audits or to review records in compliance with Federal laws. Schools may also disclose information from education records without the consent of parents in response to subpoenas or court orders. A school official must make a reasonable effort to notify the parent before complying with the subpoena unless the subpoena is issued to enforce a law and specifies not to notify the parent. In emergencies, school officials can provide information from education records to protect the health or safety of the student or others.

There are cases when schools or school systems decide it is in the public interests to participate in policy evaluations or research studies. If student records are to be released for these purposes, the school or school system must obtain prior consent of the parent. Signed and dated written consent must:

- Specify the records that will be released;
- State the reason for releasing the records;
- Identify the groups or individuals who will receive the records.

In general, information about each request for records access and each disclosure of information from an education record must be maintained as part of the record until the school or agency destroys the education record. Outside parties receiving records must receive a written explanation of the restrictions on the re-release of information.

Additional FERPA Provisions

In 1994, the Improving America's School Act amended several components of FERPA, tightening privacy assurances for students and families. The amendments apply to the following key areas:

- Parents have the right to review the education records of their children maintained by the state education agencies;
- Any third party that inappropriately re-releases personally identifiable information from an education record cannot have access to education records for five years;
- Information about disciplinary actions taken against students may be shared, without prior consent of the parent, with officials in other education institutions;
- Schools may release records in compliance with certain law enforcement judicial orders and subpoenas without notifying parents.

School districts, state education agencies, and the U.S. Department of Education all offer assistance about FERPA. Before contacting Federal officials, however, you can often get a direct and immediate response from your local or state education officials.

INTERNSHIP DESCRIPTION

The principal internship is part of the LMEA 796 School Community Action Project (SCAP) six credit hour course. Internship is designed to take place over a period of two (2) consecutive semesters serving under a licensed principal at elementary, middle, or secondary level. You are required to have successfully completed thirty (30) hours of the program of study with a 3.00 GPA in each required course before entering the school internship. You are required to apply on semester prior to entry.

INTERNSHIP REQUIREMENTS

The intern must secure approval from the school(s) of choice. The internship should include all job responsibilities of the principalship at the age/grade span for which authorization is sought. For a preschool through grade 12 principal program, the internship must include time spent in at least two of the levels of elementary school, junior high/middle school, or secondary school. A total of 120 hours in required for the internship experience and shall be completed within two (2) semesters, equivalent to 60 hours per semester.

A Request for Internship Application form, an On-Site Administrative Approval form, with approved signatures, and an internship activities calendar must be returned to the Education Administration Program Coordinator before beginning your internship experience. No internship can officially begin until these documents are completed and signed by the appropriate school official(s) and returned to the Education Administration Program Coordinator.

The intern will keep a log of his/her activities that entails a brief description of the task involved, the date, the beginning and ending time, the amount of time involved (expressed in fraction of an hour, ex. 2.25). A reflective journal corresponding with each activity should include; description of the activity, what standard the activity meets, connection to the student artifact created by the task/activity and how the task/activity will assist you in being an effective administrator. The cooperating school administrator (COSA) must certify the log of activities, and that you have completed 120 hours required for your internship. Education Administration Coordinator will review for progress and completion throughout the academic year. The final scoring and analysis of completed internship activities and hours are completed prior to exiting the program. A complete internship is a graduation and certification requirement.

INTERNSHIP ACTIVITIES

The intern is required to participate in activities that focus on ELCC elements; 1.3, 2.1, 2.2, 2.3, 2.4, 3.2, 4.1, 4.2, 4.3, 5.1, 5.2, 5.3, 6.1, 6.2, and 6.3. The specific activities will be planned collaboratively between the principal intern and the cooperating school administrator (COSA). The following is a small sample of potential activities (these are SAMPLE activities; you may choose other activities, meeting the above ELCC elements, in collaboration with your COSA).

Recommended Activities for Element 1.3

- Write a vision statement for the school and share it with the site based management team. Demonstrate how stakeholders were involved with the development and present a plan for implementation.
- Collect, analyze and interpret school data in a way which reflects the school's values and mission statements for inclusion in the school improvement plan and/or reports.
- Interview the stakeholders i.e., faculty, students, parents, community members, building administrators, superintendent or central office administrator(s) etc. to begin ascertaining the values and norms of the school. Use this data to develop a vision statement and develop a plan for implementing the vision statement.
- Identify what features and artifacts support and promote the school's vision and which detract from the school's vision, and formulate plans for improvement.

Recommended Activities for Element 2.1

- Assess the school environment by collecting data on the diversity (e.g., population, language, disability, gender, socio-economic) of the school and community. Use the data to develop a policy to enhance school programs and the school environment.
- Analyze and revise a written community or school strategic plan that includes activities to address the diversity and cultural norms for the community. Present your plan at a staff/faculty meeting or school board meeting.
- Plan, and implement a school activity to promote a positive school environment

Recommended Activities for Element 2.2

- Coordinate a textbook adoption process, curriculum review, or standardized testing program
- > Develop an after school peer study/tutoring program

- Assess the level of instructional technology in the school, and develop recommendations for further implementation and integration to improve student learning.
- Assess procedures for dealing with obsolete hardware and software in the school, and possibly develop guidelines accordingly.
- > Conduct an audit of the IEP development process.
- Assess special education initiatives, such as inclusion, and work with interested faculty in developing plans for improvement.

Recommended Activities for Element 2.3

- Review scholarly literature and Lakota philosophy and belief system regarding student learning. Lead a faculty discussion of the application to improved student learning.
- Review scholarly literature and Lakota philosophy and belief system regarding human development and motivation. Lead a faculty discussion of discussion of the application to improved student learning.

Recommended Activities for Element 2.4

- Conduct a needs assessment for staff development, needs of the faculty and propose an appropriate research based recommendations for future in-service endeavors.
- Conduct and/or observe the supervisory cycle. Write a series of summative evaluations and make specific recommendations in the form of comprehensive growth plans.
- Align staff development activities with existing school-wide school improvement plans.
- Assist in locating 'experts' to provide in-service to faculty and staff.
- > Develop and/or refine non-certified staff performance evaluations.
- Develop in-service training for non-instructional staff.

Recommended Activities for Element 3.2

- Conduct a needs assessment for organizational/community communication. Evaluate the perceptions of stakeholders and make recommendations for improvements in the internal/external communications policy.
- Organize a staff development experience that enhances understanding of how to apply legal principles to promote educational equity and provide a safe, effective, and efficient school environment.
- Assist in the preparation of an accreditation visit.
- Assess the extent to which features of site based management and decentralization are utilized in the school.
- Assess various administrative procedures and provide written recommendations for improvement.
- > Gather information about methods of obtaining and expending funds at the school level.
- Review activity fund accounting procedures.

- Participate in and/or observe the school-wide budget planning, implementation, management and evaluation process.
- Assist in the development of financial reporting documents.
- Review technologies available to support administrative functions in the school. Research and review possible technologies available that would improve administrative processes.

Recommended Activities for Element 4.1

- Develop a survey to determine parental/guardian/community resources and expertise to enhance student learning. Then propose recommendations, in a staff meeting, based on the data.
- > Develop honors programs; award nights, or special student assemblies.

Recommended Activities for Element 4.2

- Interview school board members to better understand their vision for school/community collaboration.
- Interview key policy makers to better understand community interests, needs and assess the potential for school/community collaboration.

Recommended Activities for Element 4.3

- Develop and present a plan recommending alignment of social service agency programs within school improvement needs.
- Investigate counseling delivery systems, formulating possible improvements.
- > Review safety practices and modify where appropriate.

Recommended Activities for Element 5.1

- > Develop a code of leadership ethics using personal platforms, professional associations and other documents.
- Activities related to other ELCC elements that demonstrate the candidate's respect for the rights of others with regard to confidentiality and dignity and engage in honest interactions. (An example is 'Conduct and/or observe the supervisory cycle,' as indicated in element 2.4. The candidate may indicate that he/she has demonstrated competency in element 5.1 while also demonstrating competency in element 2.4).

Recommended Activities for Element 5.2

- Conduct an analysis of school community interaction looking for examples of integrity, fairness and ethical behavior.
- Activities related to other ELCC elements that demonstrate the candidate's ability to combine impartiality, sensitivity to student diversity, and ethical considerations in their interactions with others. (An example is 'Use that data to develop a policy to enhance positive school environment,' as indicated in element 2.1. The candidate may indicate that he/she has demonstrated competency in element 5.2 while also demonstrating competency in element 2.1).

Recommended Activities for Element 5.3

- Analyze and explain how decisions made by the principal were based on ethical and legal principles.
- Activities related to other ELCC elements that demonstrate the candidate makes and explains decisions based upon ethical and legal principles. (An example is 'Assess various administrative procedures and provide written recommendations for improvement,' as indicated in element 3.2. The candidate may indicate that he/she has demonstrated competency in element 5.3 while also demonstrating competency in element 3.2).

Recommended Activities for Element 6.1

- Prepare a report about a school project or activity for a newspaper, radio or television show.
- Develop a newspaper for parents/guardians or the community
- Develop and/or chair a community and school partnership

Recommended Activities for Element 6.2

- Develop a brochure on student health or fitness and report to the faculty
- Coordinate open houses, parent-teacher conferences, etc.

Recommended Activities for Element 6.3

- Interview two five state legislators, lobbyists, tribal leaders, or school board members to determine strategies useful in influencing change.
- Review the board policy manual. Interview CEO, superintendent, assistant superintendent to discuss the compilation and updating process of the manual and the role of the board in this process. Write a summary of the interview and discuss major areas of concern for the school principal

EVALUATION OF INTERNSHIP EXPERIENCE

It is essential that the intern stay in touch with the COSA and periodically schedule conferences so that the intern can be advised on local school situations and other aspects associated to the leadership of the school. Throughout the internship experience the Education Administration Program Coordinator is available to both the intern and the COSA for discussion and assessment of the internship experience.

At the close of the internship experience the COSA will have a closing conference with the intern. The COSA will submit a formal evaluation of the intern experience and the Education Administration Program Coordinator will meet with the intern in a formal concluding conference. The focus of this conference will address the internship.

Graduate studies department faculty and staff will prepare a formal evaluation of the intern, based on the activity logs which include; date, time, hours and brief description of each activity and supporting documents submitted by the intern coupled with feedback provided by the COSA.
